

Dr Richard Rhodes: Professional CV

Dr Richard Rhodes (BA MSc PhD MCSFS) is a Forensic Specialist in Speech & Audio and a Director at The Forensic Voice Centre. He has worked on over 1300 forensic cases, acting as the principal reporting analyst in over half of these cases; These cases involved speaker comparison, audio enhancement, transcription, and disputed utterance analysis, as well as other miscellaneous cases that included forensic analysis of speech and audio recordings. This work is mostly based in the UK, but he has also worked on cases from across Ireland, Australia, Canada, and the United States. He works for both prosecution and defence in criminal cases and provides evidence as an expert witness in court. He has given evidence in a range of trials including large-scale murder, terrorism and organised-crime cases at courts across the UK including the Old Bailey, as well as in other courts including the Australian Supreme Court and a Federal Court in the United States Eastern District of Virginia (examples below).

Dr Rhodes has published in his field, and regularly gives presentations at international conferences on his expert subject area. He has carried out research into the effects of aging and assessing the strength of non-contemporaneous evidence, and on cognitive biases in the context of forensic speech science. He gives lectures and seminars on Forensic Speech Science and supervises postgraduate (MSc and PhD-level) research at the University of York. He has also delivered training on forensic phonetics at the International Summer School in Forensic Linguistic Analysis at Aston University.

Dr Rhodes is a member of several relevant organisations (see below) and is the Chair of the International Association for Forensic Phonetics and Acoustics (IAFPA), having previously been treasurer and membership secretary for 9 years (both executive committee positions). In that role, he was part of the group which re-developed the IAFPA Code of Practice for experts; he is also currently co-writing a chapter on Practitioner Standards for the Oxford Handbook of Forensic Phonetics.
